[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 9.—Hundreds of delegates, representing the brains of the agricultural industry in the United States, filled the large auditorium here this morning at the opening of the twenty-sixth annual session of the Farmers' National Congress. The delegates came from every state of the union and among them were many of national reputation as experts in scientific farming, in dairying, forestry, irrigation, stock raising and other industries and pursuits allied to the tilling of the soil.

The feature of the afternoon session was the annual address of the president, John M. Stahl of Chicago. President Stahl was followed by James Sheakley of Pennsylvania, who spoke of agriculture in Alaska, of which territory he was commissioner, and governor for a period of twelve years, during which time he made a special study of the agricultural possibilities of the territory. # IRISH CONVICT HIDDEN IN AMERICA FOR YEARS

He Walked Into Dublin And Surrendered Himself--Killed Brother-In-Law At Second Marriage.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Dublin, Oct. 9.—The police barracks at Markethill, County Armagh, has just been the scene of a startling incident which recalls one of the most remarkable crimes in Irish history for the past 20 years. In the early part of 1883 a man named William Thompson was convicted of the murder of his brother-in-law and sentenced to death. He was resented and sent to penal servitude for life. The man afterwards developed insanity and was removed to a lunatic asylum near Dublin. From that institution he escaped a few months later, and although the whole country was scourged no trace of him ever was found.
The tragedy occurred on March 2 eighteen years ago in the little church of Knocknamuckley, which is situated on the borders of counties Down and Armagh. There was the usual bustle and excitement which heralds an Irish village wedding where the parties are well known and popular. The groom, Thomas Thompson, was being married for the second time, his first wife being a sister of William Thompson, the escaped convict. Just before the time fixed for the ceremony William appeared in the church, and took a seat in a pew near the altar. A few moments later the wedding party, consisting of the bride and bridegroom and attendants, proceeded up the aisle. As the bridegroom passed the pew in which his brother-in-law was sitting the latter to everybody's horror, drew a revolver, and, presenting it within a few inches of the hapless groom, fired. The wounded man fell into the arms of his bride; his blood coloring her wedding gown and forming a pool on the floor of the church. Although every effort was made to save his life he died the following day. His last words were words of forgiveness for his murderer. Thompson exhibited the most perfect composure during his trial for murder. Within a year after his conviction he escaped from the asylum in which he was confined, and most exhaustive search disclosed no trace of his whereabouts until the past week, eighteen years after the commission of his crime, he strolled into the police barracks and surrendered himself. He was apparently perfectly sane, and his only explanation of his long absence was that he had been in America.

Varsity Team Does
NOT SHOW STRENGTH
 Faculty Continues to Cripple the Players Who Will Represent the Cardinal.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
 Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—Another disaster has come to the Wisconsin university football team in the "conditioning" of St. Louis, who has been playing a center rush. He has been ordered out of the game by the faculty, and Coach Hutchins is trying other and poorer candidates for the center position.

The students here are dubious over the statement made by the badge coach to the effect that the Wisconsin team is as far along in development as Chicago. The maroons started weeks before the badgers and have a good bunch of experienced men. It is becoming established here that Coach Hutchins is a rosy talker about the chances of the cardinal, possibly because there is so much discouragement here that it would not do for everybody to be "knocking." Then, too, it is kept in mind that the badgers have only five contests to go through, none of them with the big ones like Chicago, Minnesota or Michigan, and the only contests of any degree of difficulty will be the game with Illinois and Purdue.

The first test of the season will come Saturday, when Wisconsin opens the season with a game with Lawrence university. Ordinarily this makes merely a practice contest, so poor that the varsity is advertised usually to have a kicking contest or other feature to help out the attraction. This year, however, reports have come from Appleton, the seat of Lawrence university, that the eleven there is in excellent shape, and even seriously thinks of taking the university team by surprise and administering a defeat. So unsettled is the varsity team that many here believe the unexpected will happen.

Indirectly Janesville and Janesville people are much interested in the battle royal that is going on in Milwaukee between the two independent telephone companies in their fight for a and Don Farnsworth, both former Janesville men, are arrayed, against Richard Valentine of this city. Mr.

 Valentine is not an applicant for the franchise but admits that he is to have is doing in helping them become established and secure their franchise.

 The battle has been a long one and bitterly fought. The judiciary com-report favoring the franchise. Valen-

BUILD CANAL BY CONTRACT
COOLIE LABOR TO BE EMPLOYED
UNDER NEW PLAN.
 Government Will Transfer its Agreement With Agents for Chinese to Successful Bidders for Work.

Washington, Oct. 9.—It has been finally decided that the Panama canal will be completed by contract. In a few days the commission will make public a statement setting forth its reason for favoring the contract system and at that time a form of contract will also probably be published, showing exactly the sort of document believed by the commissioners to be necessary for safeguarding the work.
 President Roosevelt is known to support the commission in its position that the work can be done more satisfactorily by contractors than by the government. He had a long conference with Chairman Shonts on the subject and the various arguments in favor of the contract system were discussed fully.
 This change in the building of the canal will in no way affect the employment of Chinese labor. Proposals for furnishing the Chinese labor were made under such conditions that they can be transferred to contractors and the terms can be fulfilled in such a manner that the government can give the coolies just as much protection as it could if the government were the direct employer.
 It is likely that no disposition will be made of the bids for supplying Chinese labor until after the return of Secretary Taft from Cuba as he assisted in drawing the specifications under which proposals were offered and is much interested in the conditions under which the Chinese are to be taken to the isthmus.
 President Roosevelt still intends to visit the isthmus this fall, and unless there be some change for the worse in the Cuban situation will probably leave for Colon a short time after the election. Chairman Shonts, of the canal commission, will be in the isthmus at the time of the president's visit. He will leave late in October and will be in the zone at the time of the president's arrival there.

Teach Children Gardening.
 A course which is designed to fit city, but the authorities are at a loss to find men and women trained to conduct them. The phenomenal growth and success of this work in Philadelphia has led to an extension of school gardening in many cities.

THE "PANSY GIRLS" IN "EVERYBODY WORKS BUT FATHER"

"What's in a name?" asks the Bard of Avon. After a performance of "Everybody Works But Father" in Chicago, where the company played last week, a lady was heard to remark as she left the theatre: "I never saw such exquisite work in all my life as the members of that company did."

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, October 9, 1866.—Another case of cholera is reported today in the second ward. The patient is a woman and is under treatment.

Horse Fair in the City.—There is to be a horse fair held in the Driving Park in this city, on the 17th, 18th and 19th. Premiums of the value of some $800 are to be awarded. Some fine horses will be in attendance, and the show animals promises to be large. There will be a number of exciting trials of speed.

Meeting on the 15th.—A telegram just received from A. A. Jackson, Esq., now in Milwaukee, communicates the gratifying news that Matt H. Carpenter, Esq., will be here on the 15th with the Loyal Southern political issues. General Carl Schurz is to be at Elkhart on the 18th and an effort will be made to secure his attendance also.

Expensive Run.—We alluded on a previous occasion to a practice indulged in by boys and young men—who ought to be ashamed of themselves—of disturbing the religious meetings of the colored people in Hope Chapel.

Election Returns.—We have made arrangements for telegraphic despatches tonight, giving election returns from some of the prominent cities and towns in the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, which will be at the service of the public as soon as received. We expect the wires will begin to hum about nine o'clock and this office will be open to our friends of both political parties. We want to make this statement with the democrats. If the news is more favorable to them than to our side, they shall pay for the despatches.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Reports that President Roosevelt wants to be senator from New York to succeed Platt, are revived here. The president on the authority of men intimate with him, not only desires to be senator from New York after he ends his present term, but frankly admits that ambition. Moreover, he considers the trend of things in New York politics at this time distinctly favorable to his ambition and so do his friends. He is being looked to more and more as the leader of New York Republican politics and is being consulted by State Chairman Woodruff and other leaders almost daily.

STANDARD OIL SUIT BEGUN AT FINDLAY

CASE IMPORTANT FROM LEGAL POINT OF VIEW.

SUPERCEDES GRAND JURY

Instituted by Information Instead of Indictment and Court Assumes Jurisdiction Setting Precedent for Antitrust Trials.

Findlay, O., Oct. 9.—Charged with "conspiracy against trade" in violation of the antitrust laws of the state, the Standard Oil company of Ohio and its alleged constituent companies, The Buckeye Pipe Line and the Manhattan Oil company, were placed on trial here Tuesday before Judge Gideon G. Baker and a jury in the probate court of Hancock county.

In the original information filed last June by County Prosecutor William L. David, John D. Rockefeller was made a party to the suit, but through the granting of a request for a separate trial Mr. Rockefeller will not be called as a defendant until the case against the company has been disposed of. Mr. Rockefeller, it is said, will not be summoned as a witness and will not attend the trial.

Suit Sets Precedent.
If the manner of instituting the suit—by information instead of by grand jury indictment—and the jurisdiction assumed by the probate court are upheld in the higher state courts, the case will assume added importance, as indicating, on easier and more direct method for action against alleged trade conspiracies.

Both the manner of bringing the suit and the jurisdiction of the probate court have been questioned by the attorneys for the defense, but Judge Baker has decided against them on all points, and no appeal can be taken on these preliminary questions until after the case has been tried.

Judge Assumes Jurisdiction.
Judge Baker ruled that a violation of the Valentine law constitutes a misdemeanor and that the last session of the legislature have probate courts concurrent jurisdiction with common pleas courts over all misdemeanors. To this ruling as well as that on other technical points, the defense took exception.

The Valentine law, under which the action is brought, was passed July 1, 1898. It defines a trust elaborately as a combination of capital, skill or acts by two or more persons, firms, etc., to create or carry out restrictions in trade. The violations of the act are defined as "conspiracy against trade" and punishable by a fine of from $50 to $5,000 or imprisonment for from six to 12 months. As to the evidence required to convict, the statute says:

Outline of the Law.
"It shall be sufficient to prove that a trust or combination as defined exists, and that the defendant belonged to it, or acted for or in connection with it without proving all the members belonging to it, or proving, or producing any article of agreement or written instrument at all. The character of the trust, or combination alleged may be established by proof of its general reputation as such."

The information, to which the plea of "not guilty" has been entered, alleges the formation of the "Standard Oil trust" in 1882, and its continuance to the present time in domination of the oil industry of the state, contrary to the statutes of the state.

The backache and pain in the loins were especially severe. He used a number of kidney and backache remedies that did not help him and finally seeing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in the Janesville papers I went to the People's Drug Company and got a box for him. The result was entirely satisfactory. The pains and backache left him and he had no return of the trouble."

THE MONEY MARKET

One of the most important problems which confronts the nation today is the money question. In times of great prosperity, such as the country has experienced for the past few years, it hardly seems possible that there should be a scarcity of money, and yet every now and then the great money centers, especially New York, are on the verge of panic because of money stringency.

The country just now is passing through an era of this kind, owing to the fact that the banks are loaned up to the limit, and $150,000,000 is needed to handle the bumper crop now being marketed.

These conditions exist in spite of great prosperity, for wealth is accumulating more rapidly than ever before, and these accumulations are more evenly distributed.

The farmer, the manufacturer, the business man and the wage-earner all share in the benefits. Forty-eight per cent of the voting population are owners of real estate.

Why is it then that there is a scarcity of money—the circulating medium, and not the wealth—necessary to the transacting of business? The fault is with our system and it will continue to be a menace until the people arise in their might and demand of congress intelligent legislation along this line.

What the nation needs is a more elastic currency. The wealth of the country is taking care of itself, but the currency question is sadly neglected. Henry Claws, the New York financier, writes intelligently on this question, and his deductions are well worth reading. He says in part:

"There are signs of a welcome and very necessary revival of interest in the question of currency reform. This tardy awakening is due entirely to present abnormal monetary conditions, and should be greatly stimulated by the timely action of the New York Chamber of Commerce and the American Bankers' association, both of which bodies are taking an active interest in this important subject.

"Of course, it is intelligent self-interest which in the long run must be depended upon for arousing public opinion to the necessity of action. Discussion has become wearisome to all; and the country is tired and confused by the innumerable currency schemes presented for consideration.

"Those competent to deal with the problem in a scientific manner have long ago agreed as to essentials, differing only slightly upon minor details.

"All are agreed upon the urgent necessity of giving our currency system the elasticity in which it is so glaringly lacking, and upon taking the government out of the banking business. Even the ordinary observer now grasps the fundamental idea that our currency should automatically expand and contract in accordance with seasonable demands. Six and seven per cent rates for time money—and limited amounts at that—quickly convince the average business man that something is wrong; and that such extreme and unstable rates seriously interfere with the safe conduct of ordinary business; to say nothing of the highly speculative conditions fostered by such irregularities.

"It will be a good omen, indeed, if the business sentiment of the country can be sufficiently aroused on this subject, for the borrowing classes will be vastly more benefited by a stable elastic currency than banking interests, which easily protect themselves against such fluctuations and often profit thereby. Congress will never act unless forced. Our bankers and financiers have been knocking at the doors of the House of Representatives for years to no purpose whatever.

"Unfortunately, it is 'good politics' to ignore Wall street and to refuse its requests, regardless of their merit, soundness or necessity; until nothing but sheer good luck has saved the country from the destructive consequences of legislative neglect. When our practical men of business make themselves really felt at Washington, congress may be whipped into action. It is absolutely certain that continued refusal to adopt sane currency measures will lead us to drift into one of the greatest financial crises that the country has ever seen.

"Of course, we shall have panics with or without currency reform; but disaster will be immeasurably aggravated by clinging to a clumsy and antiquated currency system; or correspondingly ameliorated by adopting a system that is scientific, elastic, automatic, and suitable to American necessities.

"American monetary markets are the most erratic in the world. In Europe and even in Canada, where systems of varying elasticity exist, rates usually average between 2 and 5 per cent, very rarely going more than one or two points outside of those figures. What would London, Paris or Berlin think of rates ranging from 10 to 125 per cent, such as have been paid here; not in panic but during prosperity. No civilized country in the world maintains a system so ill-suited to its wants as the United States.

"That we are so far astray in this respect is a sore reflection upon our national intelligence. Even Canada, which works under conditions closely resembling our own, is far in advance of us in this respect. Across the border the same to and fro movement of funds for crop-moving purposes takes place every autumn as here. But who ever hears of such spasms of stringency in Canada as occur on this side of the border? The Canadian banks issue currency to the par of their capital as needed.

"When interest rates advance, the supply of currency increases; when interest rates decline, contraction takes place smoothly and naturally, by means of proper redemptive facilities. Thus the equilibrium is automatically maintained. This system has worked satisfactorily and without friction for over thirty years; not a dollar having been lost on any Canadian bank note during that period.

"The report of the Chamber of Commerce committee contains many excellent suggestions; is ably presented, and should do much to awaken interest in currency reform. The chief objection to the plan proposed is the idea of a central bank of issue. Such a proposal is politically unwise and absolutely impossible. As I remarked in my address before the Western Virginia Banking association in June, the central bank idea is deserving of no consideration whatever; it would merely excite and provoke jealousy, and opposition of other banking institutions, creating a sort of monopoly with special privileges without securing the end in view.

"As for other features of the Chamber of Commerce plan, I cannot do better than repeat the words expressed in that address upon the same problem. 'In seeking increased flexibility for our currency, I would not suggest anything that would impair the value of United States bonds as a basis of circulation; but it deserves consideration whether new currency might not be issued by moderately increasing above par of the bonds—not above their average market value—notes to be secured by them.'

"Again, I remarked on the same occasion that our paper money ought to be based on readily convertible assets and redeemable in gold. Bonds—even United States bonds—by which national bank notes are now secured—are only evidences of debt, and the time will come when these will be liquidated.

"I would make the asset currency a first lien upon the assets of the issuing banks and allow the banks to redeem their notes at appointed redemption places in the large cities. The Chamber of Commerce report speaks very clearly on the effects of elasticity. It shows that the annual autumn demands for crop-moving purposes amount to about $150,000,000, and that with an inflexible currency the supply that is sufficient for one period is totally inadequate for another.

"We provide for an expansion of currency, but contraction is almost impossible. Hence, when crop-moving is over and trade becomes less active, money accumulates in the great centers where banks are obliged to loan at low rates on call; thus fostering that unwholesome speculation, which is one of the weakest elements in our business situation today."

The Chicago and North-Western Railway company is preparing to build a new terminal station in Chicago at an outlay of some $20,000,000. It will face on West Madison street near the bridge and cover three blocks now occupied by buildings, including the old Gault House and many other landmarks. The right-of-way costs $2,000,000. The station, when completed, will be the finest in the city.

The Burlington, Vermont, Free Press says of the Maine election: "The Maine voters paid little or no attention to the minor parties this year. The straight prohibition vote on the entire state was under 1,000, while the socialist candidate for governor received but 1,361." The people of the state are discovering that a dead-letter law is worse than no law.

If the next district attorney of Milwaukee county is a socialist and it looks very much now as though he would be, the responsibility can be charged directly to the disgruntled McGovern. The primary law disappointed him.

The opening gun of the republican campaign was fired in Milwaukee last Saturday night by Governor Cummins of Iowa. The men who looked for radical statements were disappointed.

President Roosevelt straightened out affairs in Cuba without the aid of an extra session. The country is fortunate in having a President that knows how to do things and does them.

Fifteen hundred invitations have been sent out to farmers to attend the convention to be held next Monday. To any who may have been overlooked the Gazette is authorized to say that everybody is invited.

The objections to the interurban road are now claiming that the promoters should be required to put up a bond. Anything to beat the enterprise is the only consideration.

Pond du Lac is interested in the good roads movement. Mr. Loucks met the business men of that city last night and arranged for a convention.

The little disturbance in Cuba will cost the people a million dollars a month for some time to come. People who dance must pay for the music.

Good wagon roads are a benefit to any community. Rock county can have them without extra expense by improving the opportunity now offered.

There appeared to be a scarcity of United States senators at the Cummins meeting in Milwaukee last Saturday night.

The school-bus question is still perplexing. It cost one Janesville family eight dollars to supply the children for the fall term.

La Folletteism has been lost in republicanism, the best thing that has happened to the party in a decade.

It is fortunate for the city and county that the good roads proposition is up to the people to decide.

A macadam county road equal to a city street may sound like a dream; but that's what's coming.

PRESS COMMENT.

"Les Miserables"—Lackaye's Play. Musical, Leader and Concert Goer. At last! American playgoers can at last see a worthy dramatization of the greatest of all novels, Hugo's "Les Miserables." Wilton Lackaye has made the dramatization, and he has performed his difficult task ably and well. As to the story, at this late date to praise it would be as impertinent as futile. Its praise is its merit. It can be praised as long as it is played. It was first played in 1873. It has been played in the great code of France, and in the last analysis was responsible for the overthrow of the second empire. Lackaye, in making the stage version, was confronted by an embarrassing situation. So many dramatic situations to select from—and so little room for them. As it is, he opens the play with a prologue, the chief incident of which is the theft of the silver candlesticks. The latter acts disclose the office of the Mayor of Meaux, and the courtroom at Arras, where the mayor reveals himself as the long-sought-for jail bird, Jean Valjean. Then follows the rescue of Cosette, the last, before the events shown in the last act, has grown to the young womanhood and becomes the sweetheart of the policeman, Marius. The play ends with the reunion of Jean, Marius and Cosette, and not as in the book with the death of Jean Valjean. Mr. Lackaye has done a public service in this production of his. It will set young people to reading Hugo's truly golden book, and none can read "Les Miserables" and then continue to relish the bubble and squeak of Caine, Corelli and Atherton.

Fleck, brought by the plaintiff to recover damages for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections, was held before Court Commissioner O. A. Oestreich this afternoon. Recovers His Wages: Judge Reed, this afternoon handed down a verdict of $52.50 and costs for the plaintiff in the action of Frank Weimer vs. Frank B. Ehnik. The action was brought to recover wages. The plaintiff contracted to work eight months, but gave up his work during the middle of the period. Employer and employee had a mutual settlement, the former agreeing to pay and thereby waiving his right to a forfeit. His counter-claim of $100 damages, alleged to have been incurred by the non-fulfillment of the contract, which entered into the suit, was therefore not allowed.

BIGAMY IS THE CHARGE

Man Living with Two Wives in Madison Is Under Arrest—Strange Conditions.

District Attorney Gilbert of Dane county is drawing papers in criminal action for bigamy against Charles Sager, aged 28 years, who was arrested in Madison for stabbing George Woolver. In the preliminary examination resulting from the stabbing affray, Sager, who formerly lived at Lake Koshkonong, in the most commonplace manner told how he was living with two women, to both of whom he had been married and from neither of whom he had been divorced. He said he was married in 1901 to his first wife, Bessie Knudson of Lake Koshkonong, that they had two children, and that last spring they concluded that they did not want longer to live together, so they agreed to separate. Then, said Sager, he married another woman, Margaret Mulholland of Valton, and went to Madison to live. He met the first wife, who was having a hard time earning her own living, so he took him on her and took her to live with him and the second wife. The woman concocted the story and declared that they are satisfied to live together with the man and that it is nobody's business so long as they like it. It is probable that the charge arising out of the stabbing affair will be dropped and the more serious charge of bigamy will be pressed against Sager.
He is a porter in a barber shop.

"It's nobody's business, so long as we're satisfied." The papers ought to print anything about our affairs.
I'm his wife, and this woman here ain't his wife no more; anyhow she won't be as soon as Charlie gets his divorce. Ain't that right, Bessie?"

"Bessie" nodded her head and went on rocking to sleep the two-year-old baby of Charles Sager, who five years ago, in the pretty Bethel church, only stone's throw away, took the most solemn vows that he would love, cherish and protect this woman as his wife until death should take them part.

"Bessie" is wife No. 1. "Charlie" is in jail for stabbing Ernest Wool-ver Sunday morning. Wife No. 2 is well dressed and rather attractive physically. She was the dominant person in the little household at 140 East Johnson street last night. She was the wife, she thought, and "Bessie," the twice mother, was well, she was there because "Charlie" was kindhearted and took "this woman here" in so as to help her support her "little ones." Indeed, it was very kind of "Charlie." Wife No. 2 knew when she married "Charlie" that he was married before and that he had not been divorced, but he was going to and he was going to get a divorce and he was going to get a divorce
and he was going to get a divorce.

He indicated that to her mind the matter of getting a divorce was a trivial detail, and the incident of leaving off one wife for another a simple thing like casting off an old garment for a newer. "Bessie" has two children. Both are as much "Charles's" as they are "Bessie's," but the man does not dispute ownership and is willing that they cling to the mother.
When they "agreed to part" several months ago, she was to have the kids. "Charlie" is a good fellow.
Wife No. 2 said so last night, and "Bessie" did not seem to question the truth of the statement. She even nodded her head affirmatively when Wife No. 2 declared that this most wonderful domestic situation was no business of the public, so long as the man and two women concerned were satisfied. The two children, both honestly born, are too young to be dissatisfied. One is with the mother's relatives in Black River Falls. The other is with the mother, rocked to sleep by mother and of course a baby of two years does not care whether father is in jail or at home with Wife No. 2, or even if mother does have to accept a living for doing the work of servant for "Charlie" and Wife No. 2. Yes, they are all very well satisfied. They sat around a little table, piled high all around the feet. They moved in only a day or so ago, and "Charlie" was arrested so that the unpacking was delayed.

"But this is spite work," snapped out Wife No. 2. "Charlie is a good man. He is a hard worker and provides well for me, and he is good to this woman here too. I'm his wife, and I'm going to live with him. Just as soon as he gets out of this trouble we will get settled. This woman here will have some rooms and we will be good to her, but I will live with 'Charlie' as his wife."

The thing that most annoys the women is the fact that some people "butt in" to their affairs. Unless the law of the land "butts in" they will settle down all right, and perhaps "Charlie" will get out of it, and perhaps some time perhaps he may try to get that divorce, but Wife No. 2 is not worrying about that little matter.

THE FOURTH AVENUE BRIDGE WAS AFIRE

Two Timbers Were Charred for Thirty-five Feet Before Department Could Quell Blaze.

In some unknown manner, possibly from a lighted cigar or cigarette stub falling through the planking onto a cross timber, the understructure of the Fourth avenue bridge this afternoon caught afire. The blaze was discovered by men in the New Dory Manufacturing company's plant and an alarm sent in. The department responded and quickly extinguished the flames. The fire had charred two timbers and the under surface of the planks for a distance of about thirty-five feet. It is not thought the structure was weakened as a result, however. It was a difficult matter for the department to fight the blaze. Two ladders from the west side truck were hooked on the railing and tied and a lead of hose taken down. Phil Marskie was on the scene with his launch shortly thereafter and assisted in the work. There are no electric wires under this part of the bridge and no other explanation than the cigar stub theory can be given.

SEEKING TO OUST THEIR STEPFATHER

Heirs of Late Mrs. H. P. Saxon Were Plaintiffs in Action Tried Before Judge Earle Yesterday.

Before Judge Earle yesterday was tried the unlawful detainer action of Leonore Hannas, Emma B. Barker, and Florence Snyder vs. H. P. Saxon. The parties live in Clinton and the circumstances leading up to the case were of an unusual character. Some years ago Alexander Thom died, leaving the homestead to his wife and in event of her death to such of her children as might be alive. Subsequently she married H. P. Saxon.
The married life was unhappy, and she afterwards left him. Saxon remained on the homestead. On Oct. 1 of this year she died and the three children have now commenced an action to remove their stepfather from the premises. Judgment will be rendered at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

VENDETTA IN INDIANA REVIVED.
Feud Renewed When Young Man Calls on Sweetheart in Rival Town.
Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 9.—The vendetta existing between Oxford and Hemlock, rival villages, eight miles south of here, has broken out afresh.
Late Sunday night Carl Vanderblast, of Oxford, was shot from ambush, receiving a dangerous scalp wound. Vanderblast returned the fire, shooting four times at his assailant. He had been calling on a young woman in Hemlock, and was en route home when shot.
The officers are searching for the assailant. It was near this spot that Francis Seaton and Louis Yeager were killed by masked men three years ago.
No one was convicted in that case and the attack Sunday night was as mysterious as the others.
The feud is confined to young men and boys, and when a man of one village calls upon a young woman of the other town, it is a signal for bloodshed.

Bryant's Fine Memory.
Bryant had a wonderful memory. His familiarity with the English poets was such that when at sea, where he was always too ill to read much, he would beguile the time by reciting page after page from favorite poems. He said that, however long the voyage, he had never exhausted his resources. He was scarcely less familiar with the languages and literatures of Germany, France and Spain, Greece and Rome. He spoke several living languages easily and correctly.

Malta-Vita

Always Ready to Eat—No Cooking

It is good to eat. Anyone who has ever eaten it knows that is true. It is healthful and strengthening, giving new vigor to the body and mind. Anyone who has eaten it daily for any length of time knows that is true. It is pure and clean. Anyone who has ever seen it made in the big factories at Battle Creek, Mich., or Toronto, Canada, knows that is true.

These three distinctive qualities make Malta-Vita the most popular cereal food. Scientists call it "The Perfect Food."

Malta-Vita is rich in the nutrition of best whole wheat and pure barley malt extract, and is so easy to digest because the malt extract, when mixed with the cooked wheat, converts the starch of the wheat into maltose, or malt sugar. Maltose is very nourishing and is practically pre-digested. It gives Malta-Vita an appetizing, pleasing flavor not found in any other food. Get some Malta-Vita today. Eat it with milk, cream or fruit.

"You better tell 'em, mistress," no said, "that he tried to starve yer and them kids; that he wanted to leave yer at Malta to be massacred by the tribes."

"No," she replied with a faint smile. "No, because he was my husband."

Guy Oscar was looking very hard at Joseph, and catching his eye, made a little gesture commanding silence. He did not want him to say too much.

Joseph turned away again to the window and stood thus apart till the end.

"I have no doubt," said Oscar to Marie, "that he would have sent some message to you had he been able, but he was very ill—he was dying—when he reached Malta. It was wonderful that he got there at all. We did what we could for him, but it was hopeless."

Marie raised her shoulders with a pathetic gesture of resignation. "The sleeping sickness," she said, "what will you? There is no remedy. He always said he would die of that. He feared it."

In the greater sorrow she seemed to have forgotten her child, who was staring open-eyed at the ceiling. The two others, the boy and girl, were playing on the doorstep with some unconsidered trifles from the dust-heap, after the manner of children all the world over.

"He was not a good man," said Marie, turning to Jocelyn, as if she alone of all present would understand. "He was not a good husband. But—she shrugged her shoulders with one of her patient, shadowy smiles—"It makes so little difference—yes?"

Jocelyn said nothing. None of them had ought to say to her, for each in that room could by a separate sin at Victor Durnovo's door. He was gone beyond reach of human justice, to the higher court where the extenuating circumstance is fully understood. The generosity of that silence was infectious, and they told her nothing. Had they spoken she would perhaps have believed them; but then, as she herself said, it would have made so little difference. So Victor Durnovo leaves these pages, and all we can do is to remember the writing on the ground.

Who among us dares to withhold the extenuating circumstance? Who is ready to leave this world without that crutch to lean upon? Given a mixed blood—evil black with evil white—and what can the result be but evil? Given the climate of western Africa and the mental irritation thereof, added to a lack of education and the natural vice inherent in man; and you have—Victor Durnovo.

Nestor—the shameless—stretched out his little bare limbs and turned half over on his side. He looked from one face to the other with the grave wonder that was his. He had never been taken much notice of. His short walk in life had been very near the ground, where trifles look very large, and from whence those larger stumbling blocks which occupy our attention are quite invisible. He had been the third—the solitary third child—who usually makes his own interest in life, and is left by or leaves the rest of his family.

It was not quite clear to him why he was the center of so much attention. His mind did not run to the comprehension of the fact that he was the wearer of borrowed plumes—the sable plumes of King David.

He had always wanted to get on to the kitchen table. There was much there that interested him and supplied him with food for thought. He had risked his life on more than one occasion in attempts to scale that height with the assistance of a saucepan that turned over and poured culinary delicacies on his toes, or perhaps a sleeping cat that got in and walked away much annoyed. And now that he was at last at this dizzy height he was sorry to find that he was too tired to crawl about and explore the vast possibilities of it.

He was authorized to convey his forefinger to his mouth and was forced to work out mental problems without that aid to thought.

Presently his eyes fell on Guy Oscar's face, and again his own small features expanded into a smile.

"Bad case," he said, and turning over he nestled down into the pillow, and he had the answer to the many, questions that puzzled his small brain.

As through an opera runs the rhythm of one dominant note, so through men's lives there rings a dominant note, soft in youth, strong in manhood and soft again in old age. But it is always there, and whether soft in the gentler periods of strong youth, it dominates and clings to the periphery, it dominates always and gives its tone to the whole life.

The dominant tone of Sir John Meredith's existence had been the high, clear note of battle. He had always found something or some one to fight from the very beginning, and now, in his old age, he was fighting still. His had never been the din and crash of warfare, by sword and cannon, but the subtler, deeper combat of the pen. In his active days he had got through a vast amount of work; that unchronicled work of the foreign office which never comes through the cheap newspapers to the voracious maw of a chattering public.

His name was better known on the banks of the Nile, the Seloe, the Bosporus, or the swift rolling Isar, than by the Thames, and Sir John was content to have it so.

His face had never been public property, the comic papers had never used his personality as a peg upon which to hang their ever changing political principles. But he had always been "there," as he himself vaguely put it. That is to say, he had always been at the back—one of those invisible powers of the stage by whose command the scene is shifted, the lights are lowered for the tragedy or the gay music plays on the harp.

Sir John had no sympathy with a generation of men and women who would rather be laughed at and despised than unnoticed. He belonged to an age wherein it was held better to be a gentleman than the object of a cheap and evanescent notoriety, and he was at once the despair and the dread of newspaper interviewers, enterprising publishers and tuff hunters.

He was so little known out of his own select circle that the porters in Euston station asked each other in vain who the old swell waiting for the 4 o'clock "up" from Liverpool could be.

The 4 o'clock was, moreover, not the first express which Sir John had met that day. His stately carriage and pair had pushed its way into the crowd of smaller and humbler vehicular dry earlier in the afternoon, and on that occasion also the old gentleman had indulged in a grave promenade upon the platform.

He was walking up and down there now, with his hand in the small of his back, where of late he had been aware of a constant aching pain. He was very upright, however, and supremely unconscious of the curiosity aroused by his presence in the mind of the station "canaille." His lips were rather more troublesome than usual, and his keen eyes twinkled with a suppressed excitement.

In former days there had been no one equal to him in certain diplomatic crises, where it was a question of browbeating, snarling, the upshot resolute of some foreign state. No man could then rival him in the instantly aristocratic school of diplomacy which England has made her own. But in his most dangerous crisis he had never been restless, apprehensive, pessimistic, as he was at this moment.

And, after all, it was a very simple matter that had brought him here. It was merely the question of meeting a man as if by accident, and then afterward making that man do certain things required of him. Moreover, the man was only Guy Oscar, learned, if you will, in the craft, but a mere child in the hands of so old a diplomatist as Sir John Meredith.

That which made Sir John so uneasy was the audacious knowledge that Jack's wedding day would dawn in twelve hours. The marriage was much too small, though, however, no fault of Sir John's. The west African steamer had been delayed, unaccountably, two days.

A third day lost in the Atlantic would have overthrown Sir John Meredith's plan. He had often told things before, but somehow now—not that he was getting old, oh no!—but somehow the suspense was too much for his nerves. He soon became irritated and distrustful. Besides, the pain in his back worried him and interfered with the clear sequence of his thoughts.

The owners of the west African steamer had telegraphed that the passengers had left for London in two separate trains. Guy Oscar was not in the first—there was no positive reason why he should be in the second. More depended upon his being in this second express than Sir John cared to contemplate.

The course of his peregrinations brought him into the vicinity of an inspector whose attitude, betokened respect while his presence raised hope.

"Is there any reason to suppose that your train is coming?" he inquired of the official.

"Signaled now, my lord," replied the inspector, touching his cap.

"And what does that mean?" unconcerningly ignorant of technical parlance.

"It will be in in one minute, my lord."

Sir John's hand was over his lips as he walked back to the carriage, casting as it were the commander's eye over the field.

"When the crowd is found the train you come and look for me," he said to the footman, who touched his cockaded hat in silence.

At that moment the train lumbered in, the engine wheezing that lonely self important air affected by locomotives of the larger build. From all quarters an army of porters besieged the platform, and in a few seconds Sir John was in the center of an agitated crowd. There was one other calm man on that platform—another man with no parcels, whom no one sought to embrace. His brown face and close cropped head towered above a sea of agitated bonnets. Sir John, whose walk in life had been through crowds, elbowed his way forward and deliberately walked against Guy Oscar.

"Hing it!" he exclaimed, turning round. "Ah—Mr. Oscar—how d'ye do?"

The shooting caused much excitement and a great crowd gathered about the jail, threatening to lynch Reusan should the policeman die. The jail is being strongly guarded.

CUBANS MUST BURY POLITICAL RANCOR

FACTIONAL ILL FEELING TO BE WIPE OUT.

FIXES PRICE OF PARDON

Gov. Taft Plans to Issue Full Amnesty for Cienfuegos and Guanabacoa Affairs in Order to Promote Peace Scheme.

Havana, Oct. 9.—The factional ill feeling that has existed at Cienfuegos since the presidential campaign of 1905 resulting in the death of Congressman Villuendas and Chief of Police Illance, increased during the recent revolution to such an extent that the return of the rebels from the field is causing a dangerous condition which the provisional government considers it highly necessary to end.

In view of this, Gov. Taft sent Consul General Steinhart to Cienfuegos with authority to take any action he may deem advisable in the interest of a reconciliation of political differences there and inaugurating a fresh start toward a reasonable degree of mutual good will between the malcontents.

Peace Before Amnesty.

Gov. Taft believes that it is particularly necessary that the vexed local situation in Cienfuegos shall be settled before the issuance of an amnesty decree, since he has determined to include in the amnesty all persons charged with complicity in the Villuendas murder. He holds that if he yielded to the importunities of many residents of Cienfuegos and allowed those charged with the crime to be brought to trial it would result in the event of their acquittal by a judge belonging to the moderate party, in reopening the quarrel over the incident in a more violent manner than ever. Ever since the death of Senor Villuendas a year ago last September his murder has been the subject of heated discussions in congress and at political meetings. Members of the moderate party have been charged with the crime and their trial repeatedly demanded, but the Cuban government regarded it unsafe to accede to these demands during the overheated state of the public mind.

Past to Be Wiped Out.

Gov. Taft has also decided to include in the general amnesty all persons alleged to have been connected with the Guanabacoa outrage of last February, when several rural guardsmen were wantonly killed in their quarters by a gang of night marauders. He is unwilling to furnish any opportunity for the reopening of old scores in either of these notorious matters and will insist in the eventual closing now of all incidents which are an outgrowth of former political strife. Mr. Steinhart has received no definite instructions except to deal with all questions arising according to his best judgment.

The governors of all provinces, excepting Santa Clara, report that the disbandment of both volunteers and insurgents is complete and Santa Clara reports good progress. These reports are confirmed by messages to marine headquarters.

Counting Cash in Treasury.
Treasurer Roloff began counting the contents of the treasury, which amount to $12,000,000 mostly in American gold. Maj. Eugene F. Ladd represents the United States in the counting of this money.

Alfredo Zayas, the liberal leader, called at the palace and invited Gov. Taft to attend the liberal mass meeting on October 14. Gov. Taft replied that he would probably sail for the United States on October 13. Senor Zayas then offered to hold the meeting before the governor's departure, but Mr. Taft intimated that he did not regard it wise to attend a party demonstration.

Although the American commissioners will leave Cuba this week, Capt. McCoy, the military aid to the governor, will remain for another week to familiarize Gov. Magoon with the situation.

Camp Columbia, the headquarters of the American soldiers and marines, is growing rapidly. The arrival of Gen. J. Franklin Bell is awaited before the beginning of the distribution of the troops. A tentative plan is that large detachments be sent to each provincial capital and to Cienfuegos to be subject to needs elsewhere.

TERRIFIC STORM ON SUPERIOR

Three of Steamer's Crew Drowned
When Ship Goes on Rocks.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 9.—A terrific gale is raging on Lake Superior. The barge Pasadena, in tow of the steamer Gladstone, was blown on the rocks and is a total wreck. Three of her crew were drowned while seven others got ashore after a terrific battle with the surf.

A number of vessels had been sheltered in Lily Pond harbor, but some of these started out in the face of the storm, and much anxiety is felt for their fate. The Pasadena was bound down with ore from Two Harbors. The Gladstone made the harbor safely and is now sheltered.

Allege Discharge of Union Man.
